ABOUT

A low occasional table on silvered wood frame and carved feet. Each corner has a detachable carved ending, made of the same wood as the frame.

The rectangular tabletop is a hand-crafted marble inlaid panel. Each fragment shows different characteristics, in color and pattern, which makes the design unique and unrepeatable. Colors present in the sample marbles include greens, oranges, and burgundy, which are partially framed with white, and contrast against the red and beige veined marble backing. The asymmetric geometrical composition is inspired by ancient Roman and Italian traditional mosaics.

Inscribed "Claudio Romei et Scholari Sui" in the right bottom corner of the tabletop.
